The fourteenth annual Workshop in General Linguistics (WIGL) was held on April 1-2, 2017 at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The Linguistics Student Organization hosted the workshop with help from many wonderful students and a few kind professors. We had two days of talks by scholars from all over the country, and a memorable talk from invited speaker Grant Armstrong, entitled “To be NP’ or ‘not to be NP’: what can and cannot be a nominal predicate in Yucatec Maya.”

This year, WIGL 14 presenters could optionally submit their papers for inclusion in LSO Working Papers in Linguistics. This volume features these submissions. For a full list of presenters and talks from WIGL 14, please visit our webpage.
